BACHELOR OF AUDIO

Stage 1: Foundations

Develop the essential technical audio skills and the knowledge required to collaborate with other creative media students and professionals.

THINKING ABOUT AUDIO - AIM110

Credit points: 10

Thinking about Audio will introduce you to creative and scholarly thinking in your discipline. By examining leading thinkers and movements in your discipline, you will develop an understanding of key practical and transferable skills that will enable you to develop a deeper understanding of the learning process, research, and the nature of creativity and scholarship. This forms an essential foundation for your studies and your future career by fostering your skill as an independent learner and reflective practitioner.

FOUNDATIONS OF SOUND - AUD175

Credit points: 10

Establish a basic knowledge of the principles of sound, foundational acoustics, human hearing, perception of sound and the range of technical terms related to audio. You'll sonically assess a listening environment and be able to communicate your ideas using industry terminology.

Potential projects:

Improve the acoustic properties of a home studio setup. Using technology analyse the sound of different rooms.

FOUNDATIONS OF RECORDING AND MIXING - AUD176

Credit points: 20

Gain the audio recording skills required to operate studio equipment and a Digital Audio
